

ordlabs

Who We Are

ordlabs is a software development company that provides innovative and custom digital solutions for small businesses. They specialize in website development, web and mobile applications, and responsive UI/UX design. With a focus on creativity and quality, Ord Labs helps transform ideas into practical solutions that empower businesses in the digital space.

About “ordlabs”

The name “Ord” is derived from the word bored, symbolizing the founder Kurt Timajo’s pursuit of transforming idle moments into opportunities for innovation through programming. Combined with “Labs,” it reflects the company’s identity as a hub for creativity, experimentation, and the development of high-quality software solutions.

The Founder

Kurt Vincent Timajo, the founder of ORDLABS, is a graduate of Bachelor of Science in Computer Engineering. With a strong foundation in both hardware and software, he brings a holistic approach to problem-solving and innovation in the field of technology. His passion for programming and creating digital solutions inspired the establishment of ORDLABS, where he leads the team in delivering innovative, high-quality, and client-focused software products.